What Wireless ePaper Displays can do for your business

Efficient organization and communication are of key importance for business processes. These can be accelerated, simplified, and optimized with centrally managed, radio-controlled signage in the form of innovative daylight-ready ePaper displays.

These digital signage solutions from LANCOM can be positioned anywhere thanks to long-lasting batteries, they allow for an individualized corporate design thanks to user-friendly software, and they conveniently integrate with other systems. In combination with the LANCOM Wireless ePaper Server and the integrated software interface (API), data can be automatically updated by your calendar-management and merchandise-management systems.
